

Dan Ramey has been involved in many aspects of the mining industry since 1980. He has evaluated and developed mining projects and operated mines around the globe in energy minerals, base and precious metals, and industrial minerals. He currently works with Freeport-McMoRan Inc. as director of the Environmental Technology and Life Cycle Groups (ET-LCAT). The mission of the ET-LCAT is to identify, evaluate, develop and deploy emerged and emerging technology to manage corporate environmental liability, change liabilities into assets, and monetize non-core assets.

Freeport-McMoRan Inc. (FCX) is a natural resources company with headquarters in Phoenix, Arizona. FCX operates large, long-lived, geographically diverse assets with significant proven and probable reserves of copper, gold, and molybdenum. FCX is the world's largest publicly traded copper producer, the world's largest producer of molybdenum, and a significant gold producer.